

ABSTRACT

A method for treating blemishes having furrows on a region of a person's skin comprising: positioning a surface of a bracing body so that the surface contacts or is proximate to the region skin; and attracting the region of skin to the surface so that blemishes in the region of skin are flattened to the surface.

5

